

Band Biography

LOOKIN FOR TROUBLE is made up of four seasoned professional musicians who have combined their considerable talents to create a new take on classic “blues” and “rock & roll” music. The lineup consists of Greg Conte-guitars, April Kass-vocals, Don Romine-drums, and David May-bass. Their distinctive style and powerful, yet melodic, sound have garnered accolades wherever they perform. The band have culled music from the 1920’s to the present and created fresh, contemporary arrangements for these songs to give them new life and a style for LFT all their own. Not content with only playing other blues artist’s material, the band has started incorporating their own original compositions into their live performances and recordings to rave reviews.

LOOKIN’ FOR TROUBLE has been performing in everything from clubs to concert venues all over California. The band continues to seek new ways of performing their music and to break out of the boundaries of blues-based music.
